Some twenty riflemen contemplating a trip to Germany from the United States applied for passports, and the Emperor, getting frightened, refused to allow them to enter his domains. He probably thought that some of those terrible San Francisco National Guards were coming there to drink up all the beer in the kingdom.

A correspondent wants to know why the New York papers did not more fully report the remarkable sermons of Sam Jones recently delivered in Richmond. A quotation from one of the sermons will best answer that question. Here it is: "The bonton lady sits back and turns up her nose at what I say, but the devil has a mortgage on that nose, and the foreclosure will soon come, and the old girl will go along to hell with that nose." It doesn't pay to telegraph such vulgarity.

Sarah Althea Hill-Terry is going from California to lecture in Chicago. As nearly all the places of amusement in that city are now closed for repairs Mrs. Terry will probably fill the house with curiosity-seekers. The subject of her lecture is, of course, the great case in which she has been a prominent figure for several years. It is telegraphed that "she will also pay her respects to the bench of California, especially to the several judges before whom she had to appear for one cause or another. As she will be out of their jurisdiction, and therefore cannot be punished for contempt, she will handle them without gloves."

Accident to ex-Governor Adams.

The White Pine News has the following: "We learn with regret that ex-Governor Adams met with a painful accident at Quinn Canyon in Nye county about a week ago. It seems they had a mare and colt in the corral and were trying to lasso the latter, when he jumped over the bars where the Governor was standing, knocking him down and badly bruising him. Though badly hurt and laid up for several days, the Governor fortunately escaped with no bones broken."

BORN.

A UNMERCIFUL MOTHER.

She Beats Her Six-Year-Old Son.

On Tuesday evening parties called at the County Jail and complained that Mrs. McKenzie had unmercifully beaten her six-year-old son. Sheriff Ulrick went to the scene and brought the boy to the station house.

When he was stripped to the waist his back and arms showed a series of bruises and welts, indicating that a very severe beating had been given him.

He says that he was sent to get 25 cents worth of bread and spent 15 of it for pop corn, and did not return home until late.

District Attorney Torreyson was out of town but the matter will be investigated as soon as he returns.

A Monument to General Grant.

To the Officers and Members of the Grand Army of the Republic:—Referring to a plan proposed by the writer, for erecting a monument to the memory of General Grant, made known through the public press, I most respectfully but earnestly ask your co-operation and aid in carrying it to a successful issue. Your powerful and almost omnipresent organization and membership, the patriotic object of your association, makes you the proper leaders and workers in such an enterprise. Your representatives or members in every school district, their patriotic impulses and high characters, make your acquiescence and aid indispensable. With your earnest and active support, and with the powerful backing of the press, the movement will be irresistible.

To do this, I suggest that on Wednesday, October 1st, next, in every school district in the State, by an organization of their own, and in all the States and Territories referred to, opportunity shall be given to every man, woman and child to contribute half a dime each for that purpose. That no one, however rich, shall be allowed to give more, except in cases—which it is to be hoped will be very rare—of people being too poor to give even that small amount, then others in the same district or State should be allowed to make up the deficiency. Surely, patriotism and pride of locality will insure the full collection in districts and States.

LUCIUS BRIGGS

Glasgo, Conn., July 21, 1890.

How wonderful is mother love! Read this from an Eastern paper: At Neuenendorf, Prussia, the lightning fired the gable end of a barn where a pair of storks had built their nest for years. The flames soon caught the nest in which the brood was screaming, but the mother stork, refusing to leave, spread her wings over the young ones and was burned alive.

State Board of Agriculture.

TO THE CITIZENS OF NEVADA:—The Sixth Annual Fair of the Nevada State Agricultural Society will be held at Reno from September 22nd to 27th inclusive. As usual, the Pavilion will be the grand feature of the fair, and, in order to make it more interesting than usual, the citizens of Reno propose to give forty-four special premiums. These will be in addition to the regular catalogue premiums, which have been largely increased. Encouragement will be given to every manufacturing enterprise, as well as every industry of merit.

In the ladies' department we depend entirely upon the ladies, and, as heretofore, we expect a magnificent display, for which valuable special premiums will be given. We also desire the ladies to make a special effort in the horticultural department and make such display of plants and shrubs as convenient.

The agricultural department will receive more than ordinary attention this year, therefore our farmers should aid the directors in bringing to the front the magnificent productions of our State.

In the pomological department every opportunity will be given for the proper care and display of fruit. Extraordinary large premiums, regular and special, will be given for the most meritorious displays.

In conclusion we desire to say to all: Make a special effort to make a display of your business or handiwork in the Pavilion. If you desire further information send for a catalogue. When on exhibition, your articles will be carefully guarded and returned at the close of the Fair. Send application for space in the Pavilion to

P. A. MULCAHY, Superintendent of Pavilion, P. O. box 76, Reno, Nevada.

A lady writes to the APPEAL to know whether or not Carson ladies should ride astride. If the unknown correspondent will straddle a horse some day and enter past the APPEAL office, she will get an answer to her question. Some ladies look fine astride of a horse, and some don't.
